California Clean Energy Symposium kicks off Feb. 2

SACRAMENTO, CA — Affordability. Demand. Abundance. Dig into the buzzwords shaping election-year conversations on clean energy in California and beyond at the upcoming Clean Energy Symposium.

Sponsored by California's leading clean energy trade groups, the Feb. 2 event at the Secretary of State Auditorium in Sacramento will feature journalist Sammy Roth, Assembly Utilities and Energy Committee Chair Cottie Petrie-Norris and other energy leaders in conversation with industry CEOs, tech companies, utilities and environmental champions.

Speakers and panelists will get into the nitty-gritty of ballooning data center demand, species protections and the federal hurdles piling up on California's path to a 100% clean, affordable power grid.

The event kicks off at 2 p.m. and runs 'til 5 at 1500 11th Street. No RSVP needed. Clean power reception to follow at the Sutter Club.
